

Meet Me in the Middle .. When Christians Disagree

A workshop for those seeking to get along and restore relationship with parents, children, family and friends who do not completely agree on issues regarding homosexuality. The workshop will include open discussion, sharing of experiences, and prayer together for the healing of broken relationships.

Led by: Dave Earp .. short profile below (see my profile on GCN (p\_dave) to know more about me)

Who am I .. a straight licensed minister of the gospel who God has called into the middle to do his will in the midst of much brokenness in family relationships .. My theology leads me to a Side B conclusion but I recognize that A and B are convictions one has about sex not judgments to make against one another. My passion is the restoration of relationships and creating safe harbor wherever I am. Safe harbor means a place of safety where these issues can be discussed without passing judgment on each other .. It also means going beyond the age old discussion of differences and simply loving and supporting one another with the love of Christ wherever we may be in our faith journey. I also believe that I am in a unique position to help straight folks who are unsure how to move forward when a loved one comes out.

What this work shop is about ..

Finding ways to better understand each other

Sharing strategies and resources that might best speak to family and friends.

Praying and caring for each other and for broken family situations

What this workshop is not about...

It is not a place to proselytize for a Side A or Side B position.
